Introduction

I'm very happy that you've decided to invest in this program.

You're about to learn how to persuade your girlfriend or wife to give you blowjobs and try anal sex.

I'm very excited to share my knowledge with you. My name's Aaron, and I am a porn star. I've featured in hundreds of adult films. While it's not a perfect industry and the work is not always as fun as it may seem, I'm thankful for everything it's taught me, because it's changed my life.

I'm going to teach you some of the secrets I've learned after thousands of hours of practice. Today the focus is on persuading your wife or girlfriend to give you the blowjobs that you deserve, and to willingly look forward to having anal sex with you.

Your previous history or lack of experience in this particular relationship or outside of it is irrelevant. You may not be getting any blowjobs at the moment, or the frequency that you do has gone down. You may or may not have had anal sex with your current partner. But it doesn't matter. The point is, if you want more blowjobs and if you want to start having anal sex whenever you'd like, this guide will help you achieve your goal. I've structured it in a way to teach you everything you need to know to convince your partner and consequently improve your sex lives.

I've truly been fortunate to sleep with over a hundred women in my short life. I've learned what makes them tick. I'm not going to teach you any tricks or gimmicks in order to unethically persuade women into doing what you want. Rather, I'm going to teach you how to sensibly convince her to give you more blowjobs and have anal sex in a way that's her conscious decision.

This point is particularly important. I want to help you establish the dynamic that I always create with the women I have sex with: I want to be pleased by her, but more importantly, she has a strong desire to please ME.

With this dynamic in place, you're guaranteed to have a prosperous sex life. This is because women feel most satisfied when they're pleasing their men. Make no mistake: women are genetically hardwired to please. I've seen proof with my own eyes countless times. It's just that there could be some kinks you have to workout in your case to set things straight.

Don't worry – it's all going to change for you. You'll also learn why using guilt and pressure isn't an effective technique to getting more blowjobs and having anal sex. You'll find out why this method has failed you in the past if you've tried it unsuccessfully before.

By the end of this discussion, you'll be a better man, as you'll have the tools to ensure that your sex life is finally what it was always meant to be.

If you're ready to proceed, let us begin.

Getting More Blowjobs & Having Anal Sex

Firstly, if you think getting more blowjobs and having more anal sex is an ambitious goal, it shouldn't be. This would partially imply that it's far out of your reach. When in reality, it's something you could reasonably achieve. A healthy sex life requires that both partners' desires are being fulfilled. It's perfectly normal to desire blowjobs and anal sex as a man, and it's completely understandable for you to expect it.

Don't be fooled into thinking otherwise. There's absolutely NO shame in wanting these needs fulfilled. Just like women have their own desires and particular needs, so do men, and it goes beyond just normal intercourse.

The first rule to getting more blowjobs and having more anal sex is to be fully accepting of your desire to have these needs fulfilled, and to not feel any shame about them in any way. With this foundation in place, you can move on to the persuasion techniques in a direct manner while you avoid giving your woman the impression that you're beating around the bush.

Own your desires. Show your intent. And pursue what you want. But do so sensibly, as I'll show you. It's time that you own your intentions and stop hesitating around the idea of blowjobs and anal sex. You deserve better, and you can do better for yourself. So why should you continue to have shortcomings?

You could argue that I've been very fortunate in this regard, because blowjobs and anal sex are a given in the adult film industry. It's true – almost every scene I've featured in has involved a blowjob, and I've had anal sex on camera hundreds of times. While I love a good blowjob, I'm rather indifferent to anal sex. I prefer traditional intercourse. But hey – like all men, I love a little variety. So don't be ashamed to have the same feelings, too.

It could be because of my background that I've internalized an abundant mentality. Blowjobs are the norm for me, and anal sex is something I could have anytime I want. But this was also because I learned how to get treated exactly the way I wanted in bed. I learned to set any shyness I had aside, and I owned my intentions.

For instance, instead of asking a girl for a blowjob in my personal life, I just learned to go for it like I did in film, assuming that it was going to work. Most of the time, it did. And the rare time it didn't, I would just say something along the lines of, "Seeing your mouth around me would be really exciting."

But going for it doesn't always work. This is especially the case with anal sex. It could be something you haven't done yet with your partner, and the first time could take some convincing. Or it's something that you need to persuade your woman into enjoying, because anal sex often takes a different approach than regular intercourse.

Don't fret. You're going to start getting blowjobs so frequently and having anal sex like a porn star, to the point of forgetting how things used to be. I'll cover how to get your needs and desires met by teaching you the techniques I use regularly. But just before we go over them, let me tell you why you shouldn't try to use guilt or pressure a woman into giving you blowjobs or having anal sex.

Why Guilt and Pressure Don't Work

A common technique to try and convince women to give blowjobs and try anal sex is to use guilt and/or pressure. This is a poor decision for many reasons.

Firstly, using guilt is a tactic that is based on instilling negative emotions. Even if it does work to get her to give you one blowjob or have anal sex the one time, do you think it's going to be worthwhile?

A woman giving me a half-hearted blowjob or agreeing to anal sex while having mental hang-ups and doubts is NOT my definition of mutually enjoying our sex lives the way it should be.

I'd rather a woman give me a genuine and wholehearted blowjob and willingly having anal sex with me, eventually realizing that it's not as bad as she thought. I make sure to be patient, show her how much I love it, while simultaneously convincing her that it's something she can enjoy, too.

Don't approach the subject in an aggressive or desperate way, even if it's been a cause of frustration for you. This is an issue that you must handle delicately and with respect.

Moreover, if you try to use guilt or pressure, what you're in fact doing is creating a negative association with what you're looking to achieve. She's going to correlate blowjobs and anal sex with guilt and/or pressure, because it's what you would be using to convince her. This has the opposite effect of what you're looking for because it's not guaranteed to succeed and it's counterintuitive to developing a healthy sex life.

What you must do instead is create a positive association to what you want your partner to do through positive reinforcement. You're going to build on small progress while having her consciously decide to do what you most desire.

Before I get into the persuasion techniques, allow me to briefly go over some of the basics. Some of these should go without saying, whereas others are simply reminders or things that you should keep in mind:

- Your pubic/penis hair should be kept to a minimum. You can ask your partner for her preference, but know that you can't go wrong with trimming and grooming down there

- Hygiene is paramount. It's best to shower and clean yourself well before sex, particularly when you're trying to convince your woman to give you more blowjobs. Remember, you DON'T want to create a negative association (blowjobs = disgusting). Bonus tip: shower with her beforehand. Pull her in and get your foreplay started then and there. Spontaneous moments like these are often forgotten in a relationship, and can help reignite the passion
- When you shower with her, clean her yourself around her anus if you're priming her for anal sex. One major obstacle to anal sex is a woman's fear of how you'll see her afterwards – by ensuring that she's clean you'll make it easier to persuade her into having anal sex
- Give and receive. While it isn't necessary to give a woman oral, it isn't necessary for her to give you blowjobs, either. But if it's something that you highly desire, it's likely something that she would likely welcome as well. Show her through action (and not words), that you'll go all the way for her. It will make it easier for her to reciprocate later on
- Don't expect to start finishing in her mouth right away. This is a big reason many women are adverse to blowjobs. Comfort her by telling her that you won't – this is something that you can slowly ease into with time

- Be very patient when it comes to anal sex
- Motivate her and ease her anxieties

The above are some of the fundamentals that you should never overlook. I was very brief with the last two points, but that's because I'll discuss them in greater length in the next section.

Persuasion Techniques

The best way to get more blowjobs from your girlfriend or wife and start having anal sex is to make it so that she willingly does these things with you and learns to enjoy it.

ALL women can enjoy blowjobs and anal sex, provided that your approach is calibrated and correct. There's nothing that excites a woman more than seeing her man pleased, so always keep this in mind.

You may have just had some issues. Maybe your relationship has been rocky, or convincing your partner to try anal sex has been a challenge. It's time to try some persuasion techniques.

I've used all that I'm about to teach you to great effect. Place your trust in these methods and I promise that they won't let you down.

First, let's focus on blowjobs. For obvious reasons anal sex is generally a tougher hurdle to overcome, so we'll start with what's easier.

Getting More Blowjobs

If you recall, I mentioned that you're going to be creating a positive association to make your partner enjoy giving you more blowjobs and having anal sex. You're going to be doing this through reinforcement – you're going to build on your progress with these positive associations to facilitate what's going to come next.

So in a way, starting with blowjobs will make it easier for you to get anal sex. Compliance and enjoyment establishes a positive cycle that will help you gradually escalate your sex life.

Moving on, here are the steps you should follow to persuade your woman to give you more blowjobs. It all starts with one delightful sexual experience that involves a blowjob. Once this routine is complete, start making blowjobs a regular part of your sexual routine, so that it becomes a common element in your sex life.

1. During foreplay, you're going to build up to a blowjob by associating her "yes" with pleasure
2. When you start kissing her lips, stop for a brief moment and ask her, "You like it when I kiss you, don't you?" Since she's likely enjoying the moment, she's likely to just reply yes to this basic yes or no question
3. Move to her neck a couple of minutes later. While kissing her neck, ask her, "you enjoy feeling my lips on your neck, don't you?" She may sense that you're playing a game at this point, and she should play along, because she'll be curious to see where you're heading with this
4. When you move on to her breasts, ask, "do you like how this feels?" If at any point she tries to call you out on your silly questions, just smile, and ask her the same question again while adding "yes, or no?"
5. Tease your way down to her vagina. Kiss around its lips, but don't begin oral sex just yet. Build up the anticipation. Then ask, "you want to be pleased, don't you?" After she says yes, proceed to give her the most wholehearted oral sex you've ever given. It doesn't matter whether or not she reaches orgasm. Rather, what's crucial is that you show her that you're completely selfless. This should correct any issues you've had in terms of being demanding or appearing selfish in the past

6. Spend at least 10 minutes on oral sex to build her arousal. Halfway through, ask her, "you want me to keep going, don't you?" As with all of your questions, you want to speak loudly and clearly so that you don't have to repeat yourself

7. Now it's time to make your move. You're going to do a sideways "69," so that she can please you as you continue to please her. Assume the position, and ask her, "you want to please me as I please you, don't you?" If she doesn't take the hint after saying yes, say, "I want to feel your tongue around me" as you move your penis close to her mouth

Through reinforcement, persuasion (the "yes ladder"), and positive association between your questions and pleasure, you're going to receive a very good blowjob by the end of these steps if you've done them correctly.

I've done the above a hundred times and my rate of success is close to 100%. So I'm confident that it will work for you.

Enjoy the blowjob you'll receive. Feel free to position yourself so that you're laying back and she's upright and comfortable as she pleases you. In her heightened emotional state, you can look forward to her putting forth an enthusiastic amount of effort.

And remember – continue to encourage and motivate her throughout. Many women are self-conscious about how skilled they are or how they appear when they're giving head. Tell her things like, “this feels great” and “don't stop” to assure her that you're enjoying yourself. Hold her hair back for her, and don't be afraid to groan a little bit to show her that you're feeling pleasure.

After this experience, getting blowjobs routinely goes back to what I mentioned before. Show your intent. Don't ask her for blowjobs any more – just position your penis outside her mouth and guide it in delicately and shamelessly. Or instead of asking, “can we do this?” just tell her “I'd love to see your mouth around me” while you make your move.

Women respond to action and decisiveness, and not passiveness and a lack of self-assurance.

Having Anal Sex

Having anal sex with a woman that's never tried it or doesn't do it routinely can be a challenge.

But fortunately, all you have to do is help her overcome her worries and anxieties while assuring her that it's going to be mutually pleasurable. To get your woman to have anal sex with you, keep in mind that she's probably worried about the following:

- It's going to hurt me
- It's going to be dirty
- It's not going to be pleasing for me

It's important to talk to her about these things before you try to have anal sex with her. Say that it's not going to hurt her because you're going to be patient and you'll use a technique that you just read about (more on this very shortly). Also, say that you'll STOP if she tells you to stop, no questions asked (this is key).

When you're going to do it, keep the lights off and make sure you shower beforehand as mentioned before. This should address her second worry from above.

Lastly, stress how much it would be exciting for YOU and how it's a great way to bring you closer together, and how it might be the missing ingredient in your sex life.

Once you've talked to her and addressed her concerns, all that's left is for you to execute next time you're in bed. Maybe you'll have a glass or two of wine beforehand to ease her nerves. Don't tell her you'll have anal sex, but build up to it instead. This will be particularly effective if you make a move for it after the blowjob routine, when she'll be highly aroused and susceptible to your persuasion.

Tell her to lie on her stomach. Whisper in her ear, "You'd like to feel a unique source of pleasure, don't you?" After she replies, tell her to hold your hand firmly. Remind her that if she wants you to stop, that you will stop. If she's highly aroused, she's more likely to give in to the moment and less likely to object when you make your move.

Tell her that it's not going to hurt her that much because you just read that you should enter from below instead of above. Tell her the skin on the bottom can be stretched comfortably, so it's not going to hurt her like other times she's done it or tried it.

Of course you just read this from me. This is the truth – the surface of her anus close to her vagina can stretch more than the upper surface. So if you enter by positioning yourself from the bottom and NOT the top, you're not going to cause her as much pain.

Use a bit of lube if necessary, or spread some of her vaginal juices on the head of your penis. But truthfully, you won't need that much as soon as you're in. Ask her one more thing, "you want this to be comfortable, don't you?" Remind her that you'll be very patient. Enter her VERY slowly, from the bottom, and remind her to squeeze your hand. Kiss the back of her neck to comfort her. Stop if she asks you to. Back off a bit, and try again. Once you make it past her sphincter, it should be considerably more comfortable for her. At that point, you can slowly increase the pace, and begin having anal sex.

You should succeed as long as you're patient. And if you don't convince her this time, you're infinitely closer to having anal sex the next time you try. Sometimes it takes me 2 or 3 tries with a girl that hasn't tried it before. But because I make it a tolerable experience for her, she's keen about doing it again in the future. And eventually, she starts enjoying it significantly.

If you follow these techniques closely, in the long run you're going to succeed. Improve your sex life one small step at a time.

Conclusion

I'm happy to say that if you've reached this point, then you finally have what it takes to convince your girlfriend or wife to give you more blowjobs and start having anal sex. I've given you my tools to succeed, and now all that's left is for you to use them.

Make no mistake: you deserve the sex life you want. And you should pursue it shamelessly. By using the techniques I've personally learned and used hundreds of times, I'm sure you'll get the results you're looking for.

I want to thank you for reading Blowjobs and Anal Sex Persuasion, and I wish you the very best. I hope to see you again soon.

Talk soon,
